"Some of these," he said, "are of such character that it is dangerous for the public to employ them, and most of them are known as regular licensed cabmen to the police. These men borrow the badge of some licensed hackman, after he has finished his day's work and the these licensed hackman. some licensed hackman, after he has finished his day's work, and then they proceed to do business." Attorney Baker suggested that the Commissioners appoint an assistant back inspector, from the Cabmer's Association, who is acquainted with the unlicensed backman and authorize him to arrest them. Attorney Baker said that this officer should serve without pay, and added that his clients would approximate the process of the concurred. that this officer should serve without pay, and added that his clients would approve any method for the identification of the cabmen. After a careful investigation of the statements contained in the letter of Attorney Baker, Major Sylvester, Chief of Police, informed the Commissioners that he had learned that the author of the charge, that persons were doing business on borrowed badges, was not prepared to substantiate his statement. "It is quite substantiate his statement. "It is quite likely," stated the Police Chief, "that it plotely suveloped him so that it was feared as an argument for the appointment of an assistant back inspector." Major Sylvester said that should such an able to extinguish them. No. 5 patrol wagon officer be needed he might be detailed was called and he was sent to the hospital from the police force. MAY NOT HAVE A SWITCH

No Authority to Allow a Temporary Track in 6 Street.

The District Commissioners Refuse a Permit to Lay Rails to the New Government Printing Office-Materinks Must Re Transported by Teams at An Extra Cost of $15,000.

An application by Lieut, John Stephen Sewell, of the Army, who is in charge of the erection of the new building for the Government Printing Office, for permisslon to lay a switch from the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to the site for delivering materials, has been reused by the District Commissioners. The equest was made during the latter part of July.

Lieutenant Sewell informed the Commis-710 sloners at the time that switch would greatly facilitate the work switch would greatly facilitate the work switch work switch would greatly facilitate the work switch work swit of constructing the new building, besides aving the Government about $15,000 over and above all expenses due to the switch and ensuring a more certain supply

It was proposed to lay the switch on the parking on the south side of G Street, from First Street, east to North Capitol Street, which thoroughfare would be crossed diagonally, bringing the proposed tracks to the sidewalk on the south side of the building site. The only premises that would be interfered with by the switch would be the stables of the Government Printing Office on the south side of G Street, and Lieutenant Sewell arranged with the Public Printer to avoid any inconvenience in that direction. It was proposed by the engineer in charge to switch cars only after midnight, when street cars would not be running, and to remove the crossing, which would be laid over the tracks, when it was not in the control of the co over the tracks, when it was not in use. Easy crossings were to be maintained for teams at all needed points, and provision made for easy necess to manholes and valves in the street.

The Commissioners doubted their nuthor-

The Commissioners doubted their authority to grant the application and referred the matter to their Attorney, Andrew B. Duvall. This was done and his opinion was given and acted upon yesterday. Mr. Duvall states that the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of the District of Columbia against the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company, that the right to use streets for any purpose other than the ordinary use must proceed from Congress, and that however necessary or desirable it might be for a railroad company to extend its tracks upon the streets there trade it might be for a railroad company or extend its tracks upon the streets there was "no place for the assertion of any ight in the company to make other tracks or changes in location of those now exsting without an act giving the consent of that body," and that when the railroad com-pany wished to depart in any direction from the line of its present track as prescribed for H by acts of Congress it must obtain permission from that body. The Supreme Court also held that Congress, and not the court or the company, is the judge of the expediency or the necessity of any change, and the manner in which the pub-lic good requires it to be made and the safeguards which should accompany it. Commissioners to the effect that he has been informed by an executive officer of the Hack and Cabmen's Association that there are many persons who delta which the Baltimore and Ohio to extend its road into Washington. into Washington. Suit for Separate Maintenance. A suit for separate maintenance and suppor A suit for separate maintenance and support was filed yesterday by Mary D. Killinger against her husband, Milton D. Killinger. The parties were married at Abingdon, Va., June 5, 1883. The petitioner is a sister of Robert L. Pile, an employe of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and at the time of fier marriage to the defendant was the widow of James T. Deakin. The plaintiff sets forth that her brother, Robert L. Pile, in 1807, brought herself and children to this city and has supported them ever since at an expense of nearly $40 per month. Mrs. Killinger complains that, although her husband as a wheelwright earns $10 a week he does not contribute a cent to the support of herself or children.

A Horse's Foot in a Grating.

One of a team of horses attached to a Knox Express wagon while drinking at the watering trough at the corner of Ninth Street and Louislana Avenue northwest about noon restorday caught a front foot in the grating over the sewer under the trough. All efforts on the part of the driver and persons present to extricate the foot proved fruitless until finally it was found nexessary to tear up a portion of the street in order to release the animal from its serious position. Though the horse was ladly frightened and suffered considerable pain until relieved it was not injured. It is said that accidents similar to that of yesterday have occurred to other horses at the same trough.
